Coulee Medical Center Joins Grand Columbia Health Alliance

MOSES LAKE – The Grand Columbia Health Alliance (Alliance) is pleased to announce that Coulee Medical Center, located in Grand Coulee, has joined their healthcare partnership. As part of the Alliance, Coulee Medical Center will now be able to share medical resources such as physicians, staff, and technology with the other six healthcare organizations.

“We’re very excited for the opportunity to share resources with our neighboring healthcare facilities,” said Ramona Hicks, RN, CEO of Coulee Medical Center. “Our regional families will now have easier access to specialized healthcare providers, additional medical expertise, and advanced technology and equipment.”

The Alliance was established to serve and care for the residents and families of Adams, Grant, and Lincoln counties. Coulee Medical Center’s state-of-the-art, 66,000-square-foot facility is a 25-bed Trauma Level IV Critical Access Hospital that serves residents and visitors of the greater Grand Coulee area and surrounding counties, as well as the nearby Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation.

“Our promise has always been to put the health of our neighbors, friends, family, and community first,” added Hicks. “Joining the Alliance allows us to continue to make good on that promise by providing our exceptional patient care, medical expertise, and personalized service to the greater region.”

Alliance members include Columbia Basin Hospital (Ephrata), East Adams Rural Healthcare (Ritzville), Odessa Memorial Healthcare (Odessa), Quincy Valley Medical Center (Quincy), and Samaritan Healthcare (Moses Lake).
